Overview

Thomas Melody's experience includes the general practice of school and municipal law, with a focus on labor and employment law. He has negotiated many collective bargaining agreements, and represented employers in all facets of labor and employment law, including contract administration and grievance arbitration, compliance with State and Federal labor and employment laws, and employment litigation in both State and Federal courts and administrative agencies.

Tom has a thorough knowledge of all State and federal labor and employment laws and related regulations and case law. He has represented numerous public sector employers in both state and federal courts, as well as before state and federal administrative agencies such as the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Department of Labor, the Illinois Department of Human Rights, the Illinois Department of Employment Security, the Illinois Labor Relations Board and the Illinois Educational Labor Relations Board. He has also handled numerous matters before local Civil Service Commissions and Fire and Police Commissions.

Tom graduated from Loyola University of Chicago in 1988 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in English. He received his J.D. degree from Loyola University School of Law in 1994. Thomas has been admitted to the Bars of the State of Illinois, the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, and the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit.
