Overview

Troy Wallace is an associate attorney with Klein, Thorpe & Jenkins, Ltd. He earned a B.S. in communications from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in 2002, and a J.D. from Loyola University Chicago School of Law in 2023.

Prior to attending law school, Troy was a real estate broker for over twenty years. He has extensive experience in both residential and commercial real estate matters, including sales and lease transactions, property management, property valuation analysis, marketing, and client generation and retention.

While at Loyola, Troy was awarded a legal writing teaching assistant position for the 2021-22 and 2022-23 academic years. He was also the lone recipient of the Michael Shabat Appellate Advocacy Fellowship for the 2022-23 academic year, which recognizes excellence in legal writing. Additionally, he appeared on the Dean's List for four consecutive semesters, received CALI awards for achieving the highest grade in both Business Practice Transactional Skills and Business Skills in Sports and Entertainment Law, and served as an Executive Board Member of Loyola's Labor & Employment Law Society.

Troy grew up in St. Charles, where he and his wife now live with their two children.
